A possible reference to this Peter Creager:

Springfield, later Springdale Presbyterian Church, Hamilton Co., Ohio

In the spring of 1792, some pioneers of Columbia twp., Hamilton Co., Ohio decided to move along. So they journeyed to a spot which is now in Springfield Township of Hamilton County, Ohio, and began there the erection of a block-house and cabins. The place is fairly well identified as a part of modern Woodlawn, near the bridge that crosses Mill Creek, where there is a spring called "The Station Spring." This was the spring that furnished water for the soldiers of Mad Anthony Wayne's army when they were quartered there to protect settlers from Indian dangers. In 1796 a group of the settlers took steps for the erection of a house of worship and the purchase of a graveyard. The place was about two miles up the "trace" from the Station Spring and on the south edge of what is now the town of Springdale. The original subscription list for the cost of the church and graveyard was in existence until a few years ago, when apparently it was destroyed in a fire along with other precious records of the church. Here is a copy from an history written by the minister of the church in 1885, Dr. William H. James:

Subscription for the Graveyard and Meeting House

We, whose names are hereunto affixed, do promise to pay, or cause to be paid, unto Mr. John Schooley, Mr. Wm. Preston, or Luke Foster, the several sums annexed to our names in cash or labor, for the use of procuring a piece of land for a graveyard, and to defray the expense of a temporary meeting-house for the Presbyterian Society in the Township of Springdale, on demand, this FOURTH day of APRIL, 1796.

John Schooley 2 labor days L1-10-0

Levi Sayre 2 labor days 0-15-0

In the nature of things there must have been many other subscribers as the contributions listed could not have gone far, even in those days. The church was a large frame building nearly square, with galleries on the three sides and the pulpit at the north end. It was built in 1801-2, and remained until 1833, when a brick church was built in the town of Springdale on the site now occupied by the present church building. When the original church in the cemetery was built, the members overlooked the necessary formality of buying the land. It was on Nov. 20th, 1803, that John Watson and John McCormick, trustees of the church, purchased the lot from James McCormick. It contained 2 1/2 acres. On September 5, 1812, an addition of half an acre was secured for the church by deed from Peter Creagar. These three acres constitute the present cemetery, in which there have been no burials in the last decade, and fewer than ten in the 20th century. On account of technical difficulties the cemetery can not be declared "a closed cemetery" and subject to township care. Because virtually none of the original families are connected now with Springdale, interest in the cemetery, locally, has somewhat waned. The cemetery is not in the best possible state of repair, although the trustees of the Springdale Presbyterian Church, whose responsibility the cemetery is, do their best with the limited trust funds, given by friends of the past and other friends of the present, for the cemetery upkeep. Springfield was, at its founding, part of the Washington Presbytery of Ohio and Kentucky. This account, together with a full listing of the graves found in the cemetery is found in an article by Rev. Homer Mitchell Noble, D.D. in the Bulletin of the Historical and Philosophical Society of Ohio, July 1950 et seq.

From "People and Sites of Red Lion by local historian Bogan:

"Cholera, an unknown disease at the time, broke out in the community in 1835 with Samuel Gustin as the first fatality. Cause of the disease was presumably to have come from victims eating fish from the Miami Canal near Franklin. Apparently the water supply in the canal diminished and the fish soon perished. Folks from miles around took them home and used them for food. The doctors were unable to do much for the victims during this time."

in book entitled "Official Roster of the Soldiers of the American Revolution Buried in the State of Ohio," Mrs. C.E. Gilliatt of Seymour, IN, records that Francis Dills/Dilts/Diltz, Sr., was Revolutionary War veteran, that he served on the PA line and that he was born in 1755 in PA.

The first white settler in Monroe Twp., Delaware Co., IN. 1 1/2 mile NE of Daleville. He came with Thomas Gustin.

William and Jane built a brick hotel/house 1833, the first travelers inn in Madison Co., IN. Recently someone purchased the building and refurbished it as a B & B.

From, "The Pioneers of Madison and Hancock Counties"
"History of Madison County"

"Anderson Daily Bulletin" November 21, 1956;
from Anderson, IN, newspaper, series "Man About Town," Wednesday, November 21, 1956:

"Time has nearly ended the monument erected in memory of the first white pioneer settler of what is now Union Township. In fact he may have been the first white man to settle in Madison County, tradition to the contrary, and he was the first to live out his life here.

"William Dilts lived to see the county change from a place where Indians yet were present to a place where thousands of people lived, from a time of uncertain dim trails to the age of the railroad. And he, himself, became a big owner of the lands and head of a family which now numbers hundreds in this area alone.

"He died February 11, 1874, and was buried in the old Otterbein Cemetery just east of the county farm. He was buried as was the due of a man of means and his monument was tall. but in only the last few years vandals upset the upper portion of his stone, and now young trees are destroying the base, hereby shown, on which are inscribed the name of William Dilts that of his wife, Jane (Gustin) Dilts.

"William was born in Lancaster County, PA, May 13, 1793, the son of Francis Jr., [sic] and Marguerite Dilts. The name then was spelled with a "z" as Diltz. The family probably was numbered among the refugees from the Rhine Valley. He moved with his parents to Warren County, Ohio, in the early 1800s. In Ohio he married Jane Gustin. She was born in September 1791, in New Jersey and died in Union Township April 4, 1876. Time has almost wiped her name off the stone.

"William Dilts is not listed in the Ohio records for 1820, and it may have been that he was in Union Township in 1819 or most certainly, the next year. Madison County was not formed as early as 1820, so he is not in the state census for year. He cleared land and established a home on Mill Creek where Chesterfield is now...

"Jane Gustin whose daughter married a Makepeace, goes back in her ancestry to Lawrence Makepeace, purchaser of Sulgrave Manor from his relative Lawrence Washington, who goes back in family ties to about 1,000 A.D. She is directly related to Sir William de Hertburn, Norman knight, who became Sir William de Wesyngton, ancestor of the Washington family.

"...About 1835, maybe somewhat earlier, he built the famous brick inn, now on the south side of Ind. 32, a short distance east of Chesterfield. This was the first brick structure in the township and the finest inn in the county. At that time it was at the forks of the road, one leading east and another since closed, to the southeast. The house yet stands, but Dilts' stone is nearly lost."

Notes for Joseph Creager:

In the publication called Biographical Sketches of Clermont County, located in the Batavia Library,

Batavia, OH., William is listed under V. B. Creager as being his grandfather and the husband of a Sarah Nitzer. A Joseph is shown as the father of V. B. Creager. I think that Sarah Nitzer was really to be shown as Catherine Nitzer. I base this on the fact that Matilda Creager and her husband, Martin Reddick took 3 of Joseph Creager's children when they were orphaned in 1850, including V.B.. Most likely Joseph was Matilda's brother based on that alone. Matilda was the daughter of a William Creager and Catherine Ann Nitzer. More research needs to be done.

With them is their 13 yr. old son Dorance. By 1930 census, Ellen is the spouse of Alvah, Leslie is gone and Dorance is still with them and 23. Ellen is referred to as Sarah E. Rocks on the census.

There has always been some family speculation that Leslie was murdered (and possibly with the encouragement of his wife). We know he died in Missouri. This requires a lot more investigating though.

Billie attended schools in Thedford, graduating from Thedford High School in 1934. She worked as a waitress for several years, then did a program of study at Grand Island Business College in 1940-41.
